.RESEARCH.

Temple University, Philadelphia, PA

May 2012 – Dissertation Research

May 2014
Dissertation Title: A Multimethod Approach to Assessing Suicidal Behavior Among Self-Injurers

Chair: Michael McCloskey, Ph.D.

July 2011 - Mechanisms of Affect Dysregulation Lab, Department of Psychology

July 2013
Assisted in conducting translational studies on the biological, psychological, and environmental mechanisms underlying affect dysregulation, particularly as related to self- and other-directed aggression. Duties included: conducting manualized therapy with individuals diagnosed with Intermittent Explosive Disorder and conducting psychodiagnostic assessments.

Mentor: Michael McCloskey, Ph.D.

April 2009 – Master's Degree Thesis Research

April 2010
Thesis Title: The Form and Function of Self-Injury: Scale Development and the Roles of the Behavioral Activation and Inhibition Systems

Chair: Lauren Alloy, Ph.D.

August 2008 – Mood and Cognition Lab, Department of Psychology

July 2011
Assisted in conducting two longitudinal NIMH studies of depression and bipolar disorder in adolescents and young adults. Duties included: recruitment, conducting diagnostic and cognitive assessments with adolescent and adult participants, as well as data entry and analysis.

Mentor: Lauren Alloy, Ph.D.

University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, PA

October 2006 – Penn Resiliency Project, Department of Psychology

August 2008
As Project Manager, oversaw the day-to-day operations of a longitudinal NIMH-funded research study of resilience and depression-prevention in adolescents. Duties included: supervising and administering diagnostic interviews and assessments, leading after-school group skills sessions, hiring and supervising undergraduate research assistants, preparing and tracking IRB materials, preparing grant submissions and manuscripts, database management, and developing curriculum materials and related studies.

Mentor: Jane Gillham, Ph.D.

University of Wisconsin, Madison, WI
